Following the mass shooting at the Tree of Life synagogue in 2018 in Pittsburgh by Robert Bowers, Bari Weiss, who at that time was still working as an opinion writer for the New York Times, had an interesting exchange about the supposed rise of antisemitic hate crimes, in an interview she gave.

> QUESTION: The social media posts associated with the suspect [Robert Bower] suggest that he was interested in conspiracy theories linking Jews to refugees.
>
> WEISS: Well, that's the thing. The Jewish connection to the refugee is not a conspiracy. That's something that we're very, very proud of. This synagogue exemplified those values. It participated in something called Refugee Shabbat.

The same MSM has often celebrated the erasure of White America, the browning of America, something Ben Shapiro doesn't give a damn about, and the Islamization of Europe. All of these have Jewish fingerprints all over them. Jews have had a deep interest in destroying White ethnic cohesion, not only because we are the last bastion against their perverse agenda of sexual perversion, leftism and race-mixing, but because it benefits Jews to not have competitors on the world stage who are racially conscious. Fellow Jew Judith Butler agrees.

> I share both Weiss's concern about rising antisemitism and her understanding that Judaism's core ethics are tied to the "open tent" and "the welcoming of the stranger."

This is not a question of morality, it is a question of ethnic interest for Jews. Certainly, other non-White racial identity politics are not only tolerated but encouraged by Jews, but only as a bludgeon against Whites. Jews don't care about non-Whites, they simply want to use them to eliminate their competitor: Whites.
